Laurent Jochum, who has had a particularly eclectic career for over twenty years, is the organist of the great Cavaille-Col organ of the Saint Jean Baptiste church in Belleville, Paris, and organist of the middle and high school chapel Saint Louis-de-Gonzague.

A native of Thionville, Laurent, the son and grandson of liturgical organists, discovered the organ at an early age. He began his musical studies by learning the piano before studying organ with Raphaëlle Garreau de Labarre. He later continued his studies with André Stricker at the Conservatory of Strasbourg and Louis Robilliard in Lyon. Mr. Jochum has continued studies with Vincent Warnier, Jean-Charles Ablitzer, Jean Boyer and Thierry Escaich.

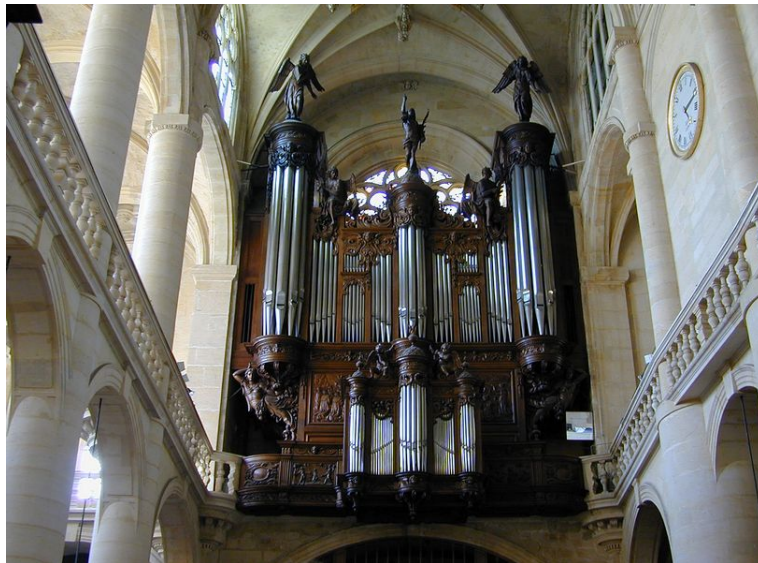

Mr. Jochum has won several competitions, including the International Organ Competition of Lorraine and the Angers Inter-Conservatory Grand Organ Award, recently renamed the Jean-Louis Florentz-Académie des Beaux-Arts Prize. This award was given by a jury chaired by Thierry Escaich.

Laurent Jochum has performed in prestigious venues in Paris including Notre-Dame, Saint-Etienne-du-Mont, La Madeleine and Saint Clotilde. Mr. Jochum will be presenting this video recital on the Organ of the Church of St Etienne du Mont in Paris. Information on the organ is located here:
